Deputy Assistant Secretary of the U.S. Bureau for International Narcotics and Law Enforcement Affairs visits Bolivia

Christy A. McCampbell, Deputy Assistant Secretary for Counternarcotics of the U.S. Bureau for International Narcotics and Law Enforcement Affairs (INL), is visiting Bolivia in an orientation trip to receive briefings on bilateral counternarcotics programs.

During her visit, Ms. McCampbell will meet Bolivian government authorities in charge of the fight against drug trafficking and will visit La Paz, Santa Cruz, and the tropics of Cochabamba.

Ms. McCampbell is a 30-year career law enforcement officer who began her career as a San Diego, California police officer. She then joined the California Department of Justice as the Department's first woman Special Agent. After serving in ranks of increasing responsibility, in 2000 she was appointed Chief of the Bureau of Narcotic Enforcement, the first woman to achieve that position in the Bureau's seventy-seven year history.

Ms. McCampbell holds a Bachelor of Science (BS) degree in Criminal Justice Administration, a Master's degree in Public Administration (MPA), and received her Juris Doctorate (JD) from San Francisco Law School. She is also a graduate of the FBI National Academy.
